Re: Launch of The SPiN Network

Dear Larry:

Congratulations for your launch of The SPiN Network. I commend you for your tireless efforts to create this video platform. I believe your solution is an affordable vehicle for schools and music organizations to make performances available to teachers, parents, and fans. This access is an important educational and music advocacy tool. Music for All applauds your efforts to provide a platform that is both compliant with copyright laws and advances our desire to support the rights of composers.

As you are aware, providing delayed content which is both compliant with copyright laws and administratively feasible has been difficult. The Scholastic Performance Network (The "SPiN Network") is the only platform of which I am aware that effectively addresses this challenge. I especially appreciate the recent provision that allows Music for All to host a channel on the same terms and conditions as Music Education Associations. This development will make Bands of America archival performances available to educators, students, and fans. We appreciate your recognition of Music for All's advocacy and education mission. Much of our archival material is not currently suitable for uploading. It needs to be restored and saved in high-resolution digital format. Thank you for SPiN's generous support and commitment to the preservation and restoration of many years of our past performances.

Music for All is committed to participating in The SPiN Network. With your permission, I would like to share this communication with our participants. I intend to encourage our participants and all schools to consider how this service can help them meet their copyright needs by obtaining a channel that will provide copyright compliant access for students and parents to recorded performances.

Thank you again, for your hard work and tenacity. SPiN is the best solution I've seen and it is worthy of serious consideration.

Sincerely,
