INDIANAPOLIS, February 14, 2012 – Four individuals have been selected to be inducted this year into Music for All’s Bands of America (BOA) Hall of Fame. The 2012 inductees are Charles “Chuck” Campbell, previously band director at North Hardin High School in Kentucky and a longtime band director of 31 years; Chuck Henson, professional broadcaster who has served as the “Voice” of Bands of America’s series of Regional and Grand National Championships for the past 23 years; and Stu and Sharon Holzer, dedicated former Centerville High School, Ohio band boosters and longtime key volunteers at numerous BOA Championship events throughout the country.

The Bands of America Hall of Fame recognizes individuals who have greatly impacted Bands of America, which is a program of Music for All, as well as the nation’s band activity and music education. Chuck Henson has been recognized as the “Voice” of Bands of America’s series of Regional and Grand National Championships for the past 23 years, and for hundreds of thousands of young performers he is a definitive part of their Bands of America experience. Mr. Henson was introduced to Bands of America in 1984 as a Color Guard Clinician at the Summer Symposium. Mr. Henson also gave his service to BOA on two separate occasions as a member of the organization’s staff, serving as Manager of Public Relations in the Chicago-area office and also in sponsorship sales and relationships after the organization’s relocation to Indianapolis. Mr. Henson is an alumnus of the Boone County (Kentucky) High School band and Madison Scouts Drum and Bugle Corps. He holds a B.A. from the University of Kentucky School of Journalism. Mr. Henson is currently the Traffic and Transportation Reporter for Bay News 9 television in St. Petersburg, Florida.

Stu and Sharon Holzer are dedicated former Centerville High School, Ohio band boosters and have been key volunteers since 1993 at numerous BOA Championship events throughout the country. On any given Saturday in the fall, Mr. Holzer can be found welcoming performing bands on behalf of BOA as they enter the bus parking lot, and Mrs. Holzer brightens the sideline working with front ensembles as they prepare for their performances. Over the course of two decades, Mr. and Mrs. Holzer have given of their time and talents to help make possible the kinds of experiences they so valued for their family.
